Seeks to recognize and cultivate culturally-responsive, learning-centered, evidence based teaching throughout the university. Services include faculty book groups, teaching tips, consultations, course observations, mid-semester student interviews, course design workshops, and more! CAT also provides programming, consultations, and support for online and hybrid course development. Talk to your department about participating in FIU's hybrid program and/or teaching online. Stop by PC 237 or email teach@fiu.edu with all your teaching questions or ideas.

CASE Dean's Office
Contact: 7-2864. 7-2978; CASE: 417
Supports CASE Dean's Office Online Initiatives, Programs, and Faculty. Supports program growth and attainment of goals. Approves new online courses for CASE and assists faculty in obtaining additional technical and pedagogical support required to engage, teach and support students in an online environment.

FIU Online
Contact: 7-3630; online.fiu.edu
Collaborates with faculty members to design, develop, manage, and maintain FIU's fully online and hybrid course offerings. Instructional design teams work closely with instructors to provide students with effective and engaging learning experiences. An instructional designer will be assigned and will reach out to you when you are scheduled to teach an online course.

Educational Technology Services
Contact: 7-2814; ecampus.fiu.edu; MMC GL 150, BBC AC1- 148
Educational Technology Services (ETS) is part of the Division of Information Technology. We provide access and support for instructional technologies available at the university. Faculty and teaching staff can use our services to enhance and improve their student's learning experiences. Services include software training, instructional, audio/visual, and videoconferencing resources; assistance with Canvas, iClicker, LinkedIn Learning, and other media. Hands-on support available at Faculty Resource Center.

Office of Global Learning Initiatives
Contact: 7-4145; goglobal@fiu.edu; goglobal.fiu.edu; PC 245
Coordinates all aspects of Global Learning for Global Citizenship, a set of initiatives that engage students in multiple opportunities for collaborative exploration of real-world problems with diverse others. The OGLI offers professional development—both in-person and online—to all faculty and staff who wish to integrate global learning into their courses and activities. All students must take a minimum of two Global Learning (GL – designated) courses.

Online Library Services
Contact:7-3009; https://library.fiu.edu/faculty GL 201/231
Library Services is your source when it comes to incorporating library resources and services into your online courses. They can help you identify relevant library resources, develop assignments that focus on research, create library-specific resources for your courses, and conduct library research sessions in your course.
